

DEPTH BOMB FIRED BY U. S. DESTROYER SENDS SUBMARINE DOWN AFTER EXCITING BATTLE

Official Announcement Made of Exciting Encounter in European Waters.

MERCHANT SHIPS NEARBY

Large Number of Steamers in Sight When Battle in Wake of Periscope Seen for Warship; Fourth Depth Charge Hits Target in Submersible.

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Details of a fight between an American destroyer in European waters and a German submarine in which the submarine was destroyed by depth bombs were announced by the Navy Department today. The name of the destroyer and the time and place of the engagement are withheld.

The American destroyer first sighted the submarine in the early morning of a clear day, says Secretary Daniels' announcement, which was prepared from the complete report received by the Navy Department. The sea was entirely calm with hardly a ripple of foam. The submarine was running submerged with only the periscope showing. A large number of merchant ships were in sight. The U-boat was less than a mile off the port beam of the destroyer and following a parallel course in an opposite direction when the periscope was discovered. It was throwing up a column of water several feet in height so like a nearly spent torpedo that the officer of the deck thought for a moment that this was what it was.

The next instant the destroyer changed its course sharply to the left, and headed for the U-boat at full speed. At the same time the forward gun opened fire on the periscope. The commanding officer ordered a course steered that would bring the destroyer across the wake of the U-boat a mile to the rear of the periscope. As the destroyer dashed across the line of bubbles a depth charge was dropped and a column of clear water shot 30 feet into the air. The destroyer turned to the right, swiftly circling and her starboard guns opened on the periscope as she came a round across the U-boat's wake. Again a column of clear water was shot up. Another quick turn to the right brought the starboard guns to bear on the submarine. The destroyer again wheeled so quickly that she was able to come down for the third attack in the wake of the submarine. The third depth charge brought up a column of clear water and the destroyer wheeled once more this time to the left and all the port guns opened up but without visible results.

The last time the destroyer came down to the attack exactly in the wake of the U-boat and ceased firing. As she neared the end of the line of bubbles the fourth depth charge was let go and there followed a widespread boiling of the surface of the sea, large bubbles and at last a heavy film of oil.

The destroyer spent some time looking for further traces of the U-boat but none was found. The engagement lasted 25 minutes.

KAISER MAKES STRONG APPEAL FOR WAR FUNDS

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 6.—Germany's first great effort to make her new war loan a success takes the form of a full page in the leading German newspaper in Paris the notice says. Money needed for subcription. Easy terms allowing time you reckon what you can earn in the forthcoming weeks and months deduct the cost of living and then see what you can lend the Fatherland.

GERMAN ATTACK ON HILL 344 YIELDS NO GAIN

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The Germans made an attack last night on the Verdun front near Hill 344. They gained nothing in the French positions at some points the war office reports, but were later driven back.

GERMANS ABANDON FRONT LINE POSITIONS IN WEST

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Oct. 6.—At some places in the new line established by the British attack in Flanders the Germans were reported today to be in such exposed positions that they had pulled back. British paratroops found the fort and held defenses in one section abandoned.

WORK FIGHT HOURS

Cornermen Bank at Ducting Trade in 10.
Patrolmen Charles Shipley and P. M. Ruth will work only eight hours on the corner. They had been assigned to work 10 hours but this was unfair as previous arrangements worked eight. Shipley will go on at 8 in the morning and work until 11. Ruth will go on at 10 and work until midnight.
Ship will not take a month of work on the sidewalk for the 10. After finishing up his work on the sidewalk he found that he could not make enough money to support his family.

SCOTSDALE DRAFTEES ARE ASSURED OF FINE SENDOFF ON LEAVING

Dinner to Be Served at Noon in Y. M. C. A. and Parade Will Follow.

Special to The Courier
SCOTSDALE, Oct. 6.—Final arrangements are being made for the farewell reception for the third unit of the National Army from local division No. 7 of Westmoreland county which leave Scottdale on Sunday. Arrangements were completed this morning with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to place the cars on Bridge street near the offices of the United States East Iron Pipe & Foundry company.

The dinner at noon in the draftees will be served in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. This will be the headquarters for the day, the draftees having been called to report there at 10:30 in the morning. After the dinner Charles D. Eagle, secretary of the association, will make a short talk to the draftees. Mr. Eagle spent last year with the troops on the border and will understand some of the things the Liberty soldiers will encounter. West Newton is preparing to send a big delegation to Scottdale on Sunday. West Newton has already sent out two groups of draftees amid great enthusiasm and the want to see how the mill town does things.

The parade will be in the afternoon forming at Loucks park at 1:30. The route is Chestnut to Loucks to Hickory to Market to Broadway to Fifth to Spring to Loucks, to Chestnut to Park.

97 OUT OF TOWN PUPILS ENROLL IN CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Tuition Amounting to $5,000 Will Be Paid By Their Home Districts.

COAL SITUATION TALKED

Board Has as Yet Received No Definite Proposition For Supplying Fuel to School. This Winter Fuel Situation in Grades is Increased by Board.

Tuition received from high school students from out of town whose school districts pay for them because of lack of a complete course at home will amount, this year, to approximately $5,000. It was learned at last night's school board meeting there are 97 such students and in addition there are a number paying the town tuition. This amount merely covers the actual cost of education and the district makes no gain from these pupils. The cost in high school runs between $5 and $6 a month. State law requires that no more shall be charged in high school than necessary for the actual cost of the course.

Tuition in the grades was increased last night. Out of town pupils in Grades 1 to 6 will pay $2.50 now and those in Grades 7 and 8 who will go to the new high school building will be charged $3.50 a month. This tuition in all grades was formerly $2 a month. The greater portion of last night's session was occupied in discussing the coal situation. The directors are having quite a time getting coal for the winter. W. W. Smith reported that he had seen the Washington Coal & Coke company and the West company but that they had no definite proposition to offer the board.

The contract for putting in a concrete sidewalk around the Crawford school building on the West side was let to Mahan Duggan at a price of 20 cents a square foot. There were 15 cents 25 cents by C. W. Bettler and 25 cents by Mr. Lambert.

The power contract with the West Penn. Electric at a previous meeting was signed.

The subject of insurance for the new high school building was continued on Page Two.

READY FOR GAME

H. S. Team Leaves for Scottdale. Many Students Going.

The Connellsville high school team left on the 10:10 car for Scottdale where they will meet the Scottdale high team at Loucks park at 1 o'clock. The team was accompanied by Principal B. B. Smith. The lineup of the local team will be just the same as on Wednesday against Dunbar township. Connellsville has a slight advantage over Scottdale having played two games while today's contest opens the season for the Western railroad. Scottdale however is reputed to be a much stronger team. She has beaten Connellsville three straight times.

Principal Smith announced this morning that McKeesport high had been booked for Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22. The game promises to be one of the most exciting of the season and calls for a big guarantee by the local management which is determined to give the town a great attraction. McKeesport meets Uniontown today and the result of the game will be noted here with interest.

TREATS TROOPS

Mrs. Cochran Gives Regiment Passing Through (and) Cigarettes.

Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran of St. James Park, Dawson, yesterday afternoon treated a regiment of troops passing through here to 60 pounds of candy and 2,000 cigarettes. The troop train went through on the Baltimore & Ohio at about 1 o'clock being occupied by a regiment of men enlisted in western lumber camps. A few of the soldiers ran up French street to the Tri State Candy company. Mrs. Cochran, who happened to be in the building, told them to take what ever they wanted.

Some of the uniformed men began grabbing sample pails of candy and others took the cartons of cigarettes. They rushed back to the station just in time to get aboard the train.

NOT IN MONEY, HOWEVER, BUT IN ALASKAN GOLD MINES STOCK

J. L. Morris, Alaskan gold stock salesman, left $275,000 in stock with Alderman Fred Wilson yesterday afternoon being arranged on a charge of absconding a board bill. Alderman Wilson of the Royal Hotel Morris owes Sloan $250 and can redeem the stock in 30 days by paying this. The par value of a share of the stock is $5 but most of the $275,000 in paper which Morris left there is in certificates for 50,000 more shares.

CAN'T TELL WHETHER BONES FOUND IN WALLS OF A HOUSE ARE THOSE OF CAT OR CHILD

A skeleton has been found in the wall of a house on Shippey street, but it would not keep down. Mount Pleasant and whether the bones are those of a child or a cat is the subject of considerable discussion. The house belongs to Web Orrhol and an animal while Principal Director J. S. Shuman a contractor. When Shuman tore a window sill off he found the bones. He thought the bones were of a child and he immediately wrapped them up and took them to Harvey McIlhenny, director of the city health department. McIlhenny was called in and decided that the bones were those of an animal, probably a cat.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

The annual reception for the Cradle Roll of the Trinity Lutheran church was held yesterday afternoon in the social room of the church, with 45 adults and 40 children in attendance. The reception was well appointed and a delightful time was had by all. The hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock. A delightful musical program was well rendered by Sara West, Gertrude Sheetz, Edith Hoffman, Ruth Cunningham, and Mary Rohm. Interesting post card scenes were shown on a screen, after which luncheon was served, the children being served from one large table. The favors for the children were pink and white marshmallows, low doll babies. Mrs. D. W. Durie is superintendent and Miss Ella Sumner, assistant superintendent. Mrs. Durie's committee were as follows: Reception, Mrs. Ellis B. Burgess, Mrs. Charles C. Mitchell, Mrs. H. R. Floto, Mrs. S. G. Zimmerman, Mrs. Karl K. Kramer and Mrs. L. E. Hankinson; serving, Mrs. M. J. Rohm, Mrs. Harry Decker, Mrs. James Cunningham, Mrs. W. G. West, Mrs. Clyde Cotton and Mrs. Edward Baer.

A meeting of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school of the First Baptist church was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Grimm, 1818 1/2 street, West Side. The attendance was unusually large. Business in connection with the Sunday school was transacted.

The opening meeting of the Outlook club will be held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry T. Crossland in Tenth street, West Side.

Rally and promotion day will be observed tomorrow by the Sunday school of the First Baptist church. A special program will be rendered.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Rita Hazan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Hazan of East End, Pittsburg, and Nicholas W. Rosenberg of Uniontown. Mr. Rosenberg is a prominent young attorney of the Fayette County Bar association.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the First Baptist church held last night at the home of Mrs. Hess at Trotter, was the largest held for some time. The regular business meeting was held followed by a delightful social session, a feature being a number of victrola selections. Dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. Morgan and daughter of Uniontown, and Mrs. Sallie Goodwin of Hyndman, were out of town guests. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, October 12, at the home of Mrs. A. C. Stickle in Chestnut street.

Mr. Aaron Pittsford entertained at a crocheting party Thursday afternoon at her home near Conneltsville in honor of her guests, Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes and Mrs. William Grace of Greenport, Ohio. The hours were from 2 to 5 o'clock. Autumn leaves were attractively used in decorating. Dainty refreshments were served after which Harvey Pittsford took pictures of the group. Among the guests were Mrs. Clark Buttermore, Mrs. Walter Leichter, Mrs. E. N. Stahl, Mrs. Carrie Jane Stahl, Mrs. Joseph Dixon, Mrs. Alex Kooser, Mrs. Henry Buttermore of Conneltsville.

The monthly business and social meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Christian church was held last evening at the home of Miss Mary Porter in South Sixth street. During the earlier part of the meeting a business session was held at which routine work was taken up and disposed of. A social hour followed. Rev. C. C. Buckner gave a most interesting talk in which he told the society of the good it had accomplished and of the valuable assistance given him during his connection with the church. A piano solo was rendered by Miss Pauline Kooser. Mrs. W. W. Kern gave a reading. Various games were indulged in after which refreshments were served. About 15 persons attended.

The regular meeting of the J. O. C. Junior class of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school was held last evening at the home of the teacher, Miss Helen Carroll in South Prospect street. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting.

At a special meeting of the King's Daughters of the Trinity Lutheran church held last evening at the home of Miss Mary Beckman in East Crawford avenue, plans were discussed for the annual Christmas bazaar. A number of articles to be on sale at the bazaar were turned in. The meeting was well attended. Refreshments were served.

Plans were discussed for the annual banquet to be held early in November at the monthly business and social meeting of the F. O. M. class of the Methodist Protestant church held last evening in the church. The banquet will be held in the church and will be served by the Onward class of the Sunday school. All men of the church will be invited. Beginning with last night the class hereafter will hold its monthly business and social meetings in the church instead of at the homes of members. Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Lauren Custer and Charles Shaw. The hosts at the next meeting will be T. R. Cunningham and S. T. Bentford.

JOHN BROWN GETS FURLOUGH; COMING BACK NORTH SOON

Connellsville Drafted to Spend Few Days at Home and Then Motor Back.

BAYONET EXERCISES NOW

"Five Per Cent Men" Well Advanced in Their Army Training; Second Contingent Also Making Good Progress; Trouble Drilling the Aliens.

By C. A. McKEVITT.
Company I, 124th Infantry.
CAMP LEE, Petersburg, Va., Oct. 3.—John Brown, known in Camp Lee as the champion consumer of nie nacs, delicacies, and the like, tennis player, comedian and hundred yard dasher has been granted a five-day furlough and will have here for his home in Conneltsville, where he will spend a few days with his family and relatives.

While in Conneltsville "General" Brown will attend to important business matters. At the expiration of his leave of absence he will motor back to Camp Lee in his Dodge roadster. John will be the first of the National Army men from Conneltsville to return on a furlough, and he intends to show to the home folks the kind of a soldier that is turned out at Camp Lee after a month of intensive training.

The first men to arrive here are advanced as far as bayonet exercises, and are being instructed in the handling of these deadly weapons. The second contingent are making good progress and are rapidly being whipped into shape. The officers are having a little difficulty with the foreign element, but are pretty well satisfied with the progress these men are making, notwithstanding the fact that they are working somewhat under a handicap. It is the belief of many officers that the foreigners will learn quickly, not by commands, but by watching the actions of other men, and by comparing notes among themselves.

When a package of eatables, containing cakes, boxes of candy and everything pleasing to the taste, is delivered here by the parcel-post man, it lasts about as long as a snowball in an extremely warm climate.

Joe Scarry and William Harlan seem to be bent on journeying to the country every now and then, and bring back with them large sacks of apples on their backs. The peculiar part of it is they never go together. They are both wanderers.

G. J. Reed one of the first "five per cent" boys, from local District No. 3, is one of the handy men in our company. He has been doing all the carpenter work around the barracks, with the help of his working assistant, Jacob Ober of Mill Run.

Private Mehalie of Le-Charing, a No. 5 district boy, is confined to the hospital here with an attack of kidney trouble. His condition is not serious. Most of the boys comprising the Second contingent, to come here, were compelled to sleep several nights on cots, minus mattresses. It is said that in the morning checkers could be played on their backs. The writing on the cots is in checkered designs.

"Give me fifty, or give me death," said a Camp Lee rookie. It is a foregone conclusion that this gentleman will get one or the other if he sees active service abroad.

Just wait till John Brown shakes the Camp Lee dust off his feet and sets foot on Coketown soil. Blow, whistles, blow!

J. L. FRIEL TO JOIN HIS BROTHER AL AT CAMP LEE

Among those of the Third contingent of District No. 3, who will have fought for Camp Lee to become members of the National Army is J. L. Friel, brother of A. L. Friel, who is now in camp. Both are sons of Frank Friel, former councilman, and they are the first brothers to join the army from this district.

Others with brothers already in camp who have passed the examinations but have not yet been called are Louis Gialardi, Henry Cole and J. Rudolph Ralston.

The Grim Reaper

MISS CAROLINE T. KING.

The funeral of Miss Caroline T. King was held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the King residence in South Prospect street, and at 9 o'clock from the immaculate Conception church. Reception with mass was celebrated by Rev. Father John T. Burns. Rev. Father J. J. Greaney of Lehigh, No. 1, was deacon, and Rev. Father William Metz, sub-deacon. The funeral was one of the largest held from the church for some time. Many relatives and friends of the deceased from Conneltsville and out of town points attending. The floral tributes were numerous and handsome. Soloson Madigan, Soloson Gilligan, Thurston Gilligan, William Cunningham, Hugh Fox and Harry Soloson were pallbearers. Interment in St. Joseph's cemetery. Among the out-of-town persons attending were: Mr. and Mrs. John Gilligan, Thurston and Soloson Gilligan, F. J. Slader, Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Doy, Mrs. Joseph Doy, Mrs. Patrick Reeves, Mrs. Misses Schubert, and Mrs. Sines of Laroche; Mr. and Mrs. John King of Pittsburg, and Misses Kathleen and Marie Pflizer of Indianapolis, Ind.

HONOR MRS. STOUTER
Pennsylvanian Resident Honor Guest at Birthday Party.

On her return home from a visit at the home of her daughter at Moyet on Thursday night, Mrs. C. H. Stouter of Pennsylvanian was given an enjoyable surprise which greeted her by a number of her friends and neighbors who had assembled at her home during her absence and prepared an elaborate check in dinner. Previous to the dinner Rev. P. L. Berkey, pastor of the Pennsylvanian United Methodist church, in behalf of the guests presented Mrs. Stouter with a handsome umbrella as a token of friendship and esteem. The table was covered with a large burrwood cake with candles, denoting the age of Mrs. Stouter. The cake was baked by Mrs. A. C. Fine.

The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Dewler, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dewler, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Miller, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fine, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. ## BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get
at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath and quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects. All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

A statement issued by the Navy League regarding the recent controversy with Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department urges workers not to stop their knitting and continues: "Please do not think however that we have had difficulty in securing knitted goods to their destination—namely, to the sailors and marines, especially on those ships where garments are most needed. Since August 17th over 2,000 garments have been sent from our headquarters under individual names. We have requests on hand this morning for 15,000 knitted articles. We are daily receiving letters and telegrams of appreciation from officers and enlisted men.

All persons working and knitting for the Comforts Committee can rest assured that knitted goods sent to the committee, or the writer, will reach American sailors and marines. Or, at the request or by permission of certain military persons, garments may be sent for the enlisted men of the navy of our Allies England, France and Russia.

The Comfort Committee has specialized on the needs of the Navy. It first undertook this work at the suggestion and request of naval officers. The work received the repeated endorsement of the Navy. From a business standpoint, an organization which is now a success and the work of which won the approval of the Navy Department, should not be disrupted. Its 200,000 workers should not be punished for an incident with which they had nothing to do.

Our records to September 11th show 140,000 articles already delivered to the Navy. The estimated value of which is one million dollars. We believe that the patriotic women of the country will increase the ardor of their work upon learning that Mrs. George Deary, wife of the late beloved Admiral of the Navy, has just accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Comforts Committee. We know, too, that the enlisted men of the service will hereafter receive their garments with warmer hearts because they will be presented in her name.

The officers of the Comforts Committee deeply appreciate the magnificent support they have received from you and other patriotic women. Unfortunately it is the privilege of but few to come in direct contact with the sailors and marines who have received and are now wearing the scarves, helmets and other comfort articles. I wish you could receive, at first hand, as some of us have received, the warm expressions of gratitude, not only for the material comforts received but for the personal interest you have shown in the men who are to fight our battles for us.

On behalf of my committee, I wish to thank you most cordially and sincerely for the fact that you have participated in this movement.

PAIGE
The Most Beautiful Car in America

YEAR after year the Paige has progressed in its efforts to build into its cars the greatest possible quality and value.

The Linwood "Six-39," a five-passenger touring car, is a supreme example of this policy—representing a great stride toward the goal of ultimate values.

When you buy a Linwood "Six-39" each of your dollars purchases more motoring than it could ever have commanded before.

Embodying the mechanical excellence that has made Paige popularity enduring, it combines with that virtue a distinctive design well worthy of the phrase—"The Most Beautiful Car in America."

MOUNT PLEASANT DRAFTS REPORT AT 1.30 SUNDAY

After Roll Call They Will be Dismissed Until 4 O'clock in the Afternoon.

TRAIN TO LEAVE AT 5 O'CLOCK

Members of Contingent to Be Instructed to B. & O. Station by Their Friends; High School Orchestra Starts Practice; Second Crop of Strawberries.

Special to The Courier.—
MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 6.—The drafted men of district No. 6 will meet at the Army on Sunday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock for instruction and then will be dismissed until about 4 o'clock when Rev. A. P. Kelso, pastor of the Middle Presbyterian church will make an address. There will then be a parade to escort the men to the Baltimore & Ohio depot where the train will leave at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Mary Melago, aged 88 years, died at her home on Wednesday.
Funeral services were held Friday morning at the Slavic church and interment was made at the Slavic cemetery.

Practicing Start.
The high school orchestra met on Wednesday evening and held first rehearsal under the direction of Prof.
J. Hunter Gamble, of the Institute.
Each of the four classes was represented. The Choral Society held their first rehearsal Thursday evening
under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Jones of the Institute.

Second Berry Crop.
Mrs. J. N. Stoner of Ruffsdale, is reaping a second crop of strawberries of the largest variety ever on the place. The berries are exceptionally sweet and really better than those gathered earlier.

Missionary Meeting.
The Missionary societies of the Fourth district, Redstone Presbytery, held an all-day meeting in the Reunion
Presbyterian church here yesterday.
Miss Rachel Neel had charge. Devotions were led by Mrs. Dowden of Dunbar.
Mrs. H. M. Kerr of Connellsville read a paper on "Work Among the Foreigners in Redstone Presbytery."

Mrs. E. G. Hall of Connellsville, secretary of the Freedmen, gave a talk on Redstone Academy. Mrs. J. S. Brown of McKeesport, president of the foreign missionary societies of this district, gave a talk and Mrs. B. B. Williams of McKeesport, president of the home missionary societies of this district, gave a very interesting talk.
Lunch was then served in the church.
The afternoon sessions opened with devotions by Mrs. Ida Parker of Scot-tishdale. A duet was sung by Mrs. Frank Cooper and Miss Helen Cort. The principal address was given by Mrs.
Smith Ordway of West Pittsburg, who spoke on "The News of the Hour on General Mission Work."

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if Bladder
bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder distress.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone;
makes a delightful effervescent lithia-
water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.

NO ROMANCE IN WAR; IT'S A DIRTY BUSINESS AND ALL ARE EAGER TO GET IT OVER

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)
MANCHESTER, Eng., Sept. 29.—
There is no romance in war;
it is a dirty business, and every one of us who is in it is determined that when we finish this war, it shall be so thoroughly flushed that nobody will ever start another.

Thus writes a British transport captain in a letter to his local newspaper, describing how he had just lost 20 of his men, although they were nearly a dozen miles behind the front,
through a shell from a German long-range naval gun 15 miles away. The shell was a chance shot.

"We have descended on a war of stink-pots, of specciated chemists flinging horribly in obscure laboratories while they concoct the tortures
of the damned, of medieval poisons, of flying death from the clouds. It is less like war than some elemental devilishness which man is as powerless to control as he was the volcanoes which overwhelmed Pompeii or St. Pierre. It is not alone in the forefront of the battle where men stand face-to-face, but in quiet places far back, where death flings himself with outrageous violence and suddenness.
The dead men have never seen their foe; there has been no contest, no combat."

"I witnessed an incident today the like of which I have seen before, the like of which is happening every day along these hundreds of miles of battle line. It is as well you should hear of it who have a quiet roof over your heads, who wait placidly under your umbrellas at the street corner
for your tram car.

"I was at a cross roads, and a vast amount of traffic was moving by it, buses and wagons and panting motor lorries and officers on horseback and ambulances. Far in front hung motionless in the air the long row of balloons that marked the circle of the front.

"It endured perhaps but two seconds before it precipitated that frightful tragedy towards which it was moving, but every second was an age. Every man who heard it held his breath. Now the whistle changed to a sudden plunging roar. A quarter of a ton was falling headlong through space and yet invisible. A rocking crash, and up from the road leaped a volcano of black earth and smoke and stones. The whole air filled itself with shrieking bits of metal, whirling swarms of dust and choking fumes. Horses were plunging, men crouching. Above all rang the screams of mortal agony.

"I gazed with horror towards the spot and saw a wagon lying with its wheels up in the ditch, its horses lying motionless nearby. In the grass by the roadside lay some inert figures of men whose absolute motionless told its own tale.

"One thought of the home suddenly emptied far away, of mothers and wives and children that would wait in vain. And it has all been done by the unseen hand that had just pulled a string 15 miles away."

SEASIDE RESORT IN FLANDERS.
Sept. 8.—Excursions to the seashore have been abolished in France since the beginning of the war, but one invaded this excellent bathing beach today, giving it an unaccustomed animation.

An entire division of French police arrived in the morning, climbed out of motor buses and motors with the mud of Flanders still on them. In a few minutes they were making the surf fly as it has not done since 1913.
They were the men with whom General Anthoine had brilliantly taken the German lines north of Bixchoote.

When these heroes were relieved,
their general told them what a great service they had rendered to their country, and ended by asking: "Boys, what can I do for you?" An officer covered from head to foot with trench
mud, stepped forward and said:
"General, I think what all the men would prefer to anything else on earth is a good bath."

General Anthoine immediately ordered a mobilization of sufficient motor conveyances to take the entire division to the nearest seaside resort, where they could enjoy a swim in the surf, of which not only soldiers but the great majority of civilians have been deprived since hostilities began.
The effect of this opportunity for a good free plunge in salt water upon the spirit of the men was such that the officers regret that the quarters of all divisions are not near enough to the coast so that the experiment may be developed into a permanent and regular diversion for the troops at the front.

FIGHT FOR YOUR LIFE

Duty Demands
Robust Health

Fight to get it and keep it

Fight—fight day in and day out to prevent being overtaken by ill and sickness. Keep wrinkles from marring the cheek and the body from losing its youthful appearance and buoyancy.
Fight when ill-health is coming with its pallor and pains, defects and declining powers. Fight to stay fit and strong.

But fight for your life. Don't fight without weapons that can win the day for without the intelligent use of effective weapons the pallor spreads and weakness grows and a seemingly strong man or woman collapses before a prayer to ill after all.

You will not find this class of persons in the hypoferrin ranks. No unhealthy, dull, draggy, droopy persons in that line. It is a hale, hearty, robust aggregation of quick-stepping who view life in a joyous frame of mind and are mentally and physically equal to any emergency. Hypoferrin stands for a strong body and sound mind—It is the invigorating tonic of the times—
—powerful and unsurpassed as a health restorer, vitalizer and health preserver.

Fight to hold the vigor of a sound body with hypoferrin or to stay the process of decay and restore health and strength—your wish. This tonic of amazing, wonder-working properties has been approved by physicians as a restorer and safeguard of health. It is a thoroughly scientific propagation of the very elements necessary to tone up the stomach and nerves, to build strong, vital tissue, make pure blood, firm flesh and solid, active, tireless muscles.

Hypoferrin contains those mighty strength-producing agents, lecithin and iron phosphate, in a form best adapted to benefit the body and its organs. Its ingredients are absolutely necessary to the blood, in nine cases out of ten a run-down condition, pallor, pale complexions are due to lack of lecithin and iron phosphate in the system.

No need of going through life sickly and always feeling miserable in this age of medical science. Join the hypoferrin rank. It puts into you the spirit of manliness and vigor you ought to have and puts it into your body and mind that makes the confidence that you confront the world on an equal footing with anyone.

WHAT OF WINTER? IS THE QUESTION IN COAL TRADE

A Most Serious Situation Now
Confronts the Coal Consumers.

ACUTE SHORTAGE IS SURE

The Government's Remedial Measures Have Decreased Production Without Improving Coal Supply, Transportation or Labor Conditions.

The country is on the threshold of winter, and facing the most serious conditions in coal production and supply in its history, says the American Coal Journal. Price fixing agitation promoted by large consuming interests as a camouflage to fill their own bins has served to drive the domestic trade from the market in the summer in the delusion that through government action coal would later be more plentiful and prices brought down to lower levels.

The prices are down but by arbitrary means, and the first effect of which is to decrease production. Thousands of households are face to face with cold weather with little or no coal in their basements. These people must have coal as a preventative of epidemics of sickness. Office buildings, stores and hotels must have coal for heating purposes.

Production statistics for the summer show that the output of the mines has been approximately 75 per cent of the demand for coal. Winter weather will not only increase the demand, but will lower the production largely because of decreasing rail facilities.

Factories are also seeking coal, and many of them are entering the winter with supplies sufficient to maintain them for only a short time. Indications point to many towns and cities being confronted this winter with the specter of cold residences and homes, or closed factories and unemployed people.

Strikes from trivial causes are closing mines for days in succession and higher wage agitation hampers production in every field. The prospect of idle people this winter because of steam coal shortage stirs neither labor union heads, nor awakens the lethargy of government authorities.

Remedial measures by the Washington powers who have assumed authority in the situation are confined solely to price fixing activities, the direct result of which so far is to decrease production. Attention is being given to neither coal shortage, rail facilities nor labor conditions.

The coal producers in all likelihood will receive the full brunt of criticism and condemnation for the condition immediately ahead. Recrimination and acrimony will be heaped upon them, with threats, investigations, possibly grand jury inquiries,
and frenzied appeals to Washington.

But—The government by Congressional action is drafting men into the army, but hesitates to interfere with decreasing labor efficiency in the coal mines.

The government is exercising "war powers" in designating maximum coal prices, but disclaims authority to fix meat and other food prices, and puts forward the rural vote grabbing expedient of a minimum price on certain grades of wheat.

Governmental bodies assert authority to seize coal mines, but the government fails to assert the right to close coal burning factories not producing luxuries, and articles not necessary in households, or in the prosecution of the war.

Government agencies distribute coal cars to mines under priority shipment orders, but declines to forbid
the diversion of coal cars to the movement of road building material, automobiles and similar freight traffic.

Members of one state council of defense in the mid-west are boasting of their readiness to take advantage of a coal stringency this winter for renewed attacks upon the coal industry.

The coal industry has two immediate channels of relief. One is in the promotion of a national association to complete organization as soon as possible, and founded on the high aims and broad purposes of societies like the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Bankers' Association and the National Organization of Railway Executives.

NOW THAT COKE PRICE IS FIXED MARKET HAS BECOME VERY QUIET

Plenty of Places to Ship Coke Without Looking for New Orders.

SHIPMENTS ON CONTRACT

Receiving Attention; No Pressure to Sell Spot; Freer Offerings Likely
Later; Several Matters in Price-
Fixing Plan Not Yet Made Clear.

Special to The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—The coke market has naturally been very quiet since the price was fixed by the government at $6.00. There has been little pressure to sell as operators were generally able to find a place to ship coke, being behindhand in shipments on many obligations. Those who had contracts first addressed themselves to the matter of giving holders of contracts full shipments, something that operating conditions have made the exception more often than the rule for several months. Then there were various short-term obligations which could well stand attention, sales that had been made of lots of 50 to 100 cars just before the price was fixed. The result was that the turnover in the open market has been very light.

There has been an actual market every day, however. As reported a week ago, early on the Tuesday morning after the price had been fixed there was a sale of several carloads of coke at $6.00, the same coke that had been offered to the buyer the day before at $12.50 and refused, and there have been transactions every day since. The expectation is that when the operators have gotten their old customers in good shape there will be fairly free offerings in the open market. The operation may require some time, however, as furnaces have been short of coke for so long a time that they are likely to be rather slow at calling a halt when they see more coke coming in day by day than they use.

The differential on foundry coke has not yet been fixed and there is no information on which to base a prediction as to what differential will be prescribed. The spread between furnace and foundry coke has varied widely in the past, sometimes being a little more than the cost of fork-lifting cars, while a few months ago it averaged about $1.50 a ton and lately it has been somewhat less. There has also been a wide range as to the grade, and the government would probably do well to fix rather a wide spread, so that the indifferent grades can be sold at a discount from the fixed price.

The coke brokers are somewhat disturbed over the fact that no margin has been allowed them in the government price fixing and the prospect that there will be no allowance previously agreed upon for the jobber 25 cents, to be charged the consumer, while when prices were fixed under the Lever act this margin was cut to 15 cents and recent advances have been that when the government advances its price, as it is known it will, the brokerage will be cut out altogether. In the circumstances there is little prospect that a coke broker's margin will be allowed. The Washington authorities doubtless take the stand that when in a business transaction a commission is paid it is usually paid by the seller, and as $6.00 is simply the maximum price for coke there is no law to hinder the coke operator from paying the broker an allowance out of his $6.00. The coke broker, however, evidently feels that the operator will be indisposed to pay any brokerage for selling coke at $6.00 when it has hitherto brought $12 to $15.

The market is quotable at $6.00 for furnace and foundry coke, spot or contract.

A curious feature of the situation is that much more coke has been sold on contract for the year 1918 than is sold for the remainder of this year, and it is predicted that there will be much larger offerings of spot coke in the open market in the next three months than there will be after January 1.

The average quoted price of spot furnace coke in September was $11.85. During the last five business days of the month the quotation was $6.00. Monthly averages since the beginning of the year have been as follows:

Month	Price
January	$7.44
February	$10.57
March	$9.58
April	$9.09
May	$9.50
June	$12.20
July	$12.32
August	$12.42
September	$12.35

The pig iron market has been very quiet since the basis price was fixed, this being $33.00 for basic, foundry and malleable at Valley furnaces. A couple transactions have been made in Bessemer iron at the tentative price of $36.30, it having been found that on an average Bessemer had usually sold at about 10 per cent above basic, and this price will stand until the final roundup of all pig iron prices, covering the various grades and districts. There is demand for pig iron, but only for early deliveries and as the furnaces are well sold up they have been able to dispose of it, as the only price they could quote would be the one recently fixed. The market is quotable nominally at $33.00 for basic, malleable and No. 2 foundry and at $35.50 for Bessemer, at Valley furnaces.

The average prices for September computed by W. P. Snyder & Company, from the actual sales, are $45.4506 for Bessemer and $41.244 for basic, showing decline from August of $1.77 in Bessemer and $8.25 in basic. Average quoted prices at Valley furnaces have been as follows:

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

The orderly course of operation in the Connellsville region has not been disarranged by the application of the wholly new conditions imposed by governmental regulation of price for its product. The operators having accepted the dictum of the "Fuel Administration" in good spirit, and the trade having been relieved of the stress and feverish excitement of an unprecedentedly high spot market, continuing over a 74 period, they have entered upon the new state with some relief. This condition will permit them to give an closer attention to the business of shipping up their product.

Shipments last week, including a number of cars held over on winning between plants and scale the preceding week, showed an apparent gain of 14,000 tons, the total being 360,182 tons as compared with 345,324, the record of the preceding week.

There is some doubt that the new wage scale, effective last Monday, will very materially add to the number of men. One operator expresses the conviction, based on long experience and observation that "The higher the wage, the smaller the output per man," an axiom deduced from the fact that miners, as a class, are content with a certain self-determined earnings rather than exerting themselves to the limit of their opportunities. The market is quiet, now that price has been fixed, and no pressure is being exerted to sell. Attention is being given mainly to filling contract requirements. Freer spot offerings are anticipated later.

Month	Bessemer, Basic	Pig Iron
January	$15.00	$30.00
February	$25.00	$30.00
March	$27.00	$31.00

WILL TAKE SEVERAL WEEKS

To Complete the Steel Price-Fixing Schedules; Little Business Doing; Either Prompt or Deferred.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

The pig iron and steel producers have expressed themselves quite universally as well satisfied with the prices agreed upon some ten days ago with the Washington authorities. With bars at 2.90c, shapes at 3.00c and plates at 3.25c as a basis, suitable prices for the remainder of the finished steel list are now being computed and some of the prices may be announced within a week. Washington advices, however, are that the list will eventually comprise about 150 articles so that the entire price fixing program will hardly be completed before several weeks have elapsed.

All the computations indicate that the large steel companies will be able to earn considerably more money than they reported for the June quarter, which would mean that after excess profits are deducted the remainder will exceed the net earnings in 1916 by very comfortable margins. Many of the small producers will not show the same relation, not because their costs are higher, as the differences are only a very few dollars a ton, but because their earnings per ton in recent months have been much greater than those of the large producers, because they had taken advantage of the premiums offered for prompt deliveries while the large mills were filled up on relatively low priced contracts.

MAY LAY SIDEWALKS

Shipley Likely to Get Month's Leave of Absence From Force.

Patrolman Charles Shipley may be granted a month's leave of absence from the police force, provided the weather remains good, to lay sidewalks for the city. Council has ordered that a number of pavements be put down by the city where property owners refuse to have the work done, the cost being assessed on the residents.

C. W. Bettler was given the contract of laying the sidewalks some time ago, but he has too much work on hand to make progress on the city jobs. Mayor R. Maricella is in favor of putting Shipley, who is a concrete contractor to work, and shifting one of the night policemen to Shipley's day turn as cornerman.

URGENT CALL FOR WOMEN TYPEWRITERS AND STENOGRAPHERS

Government Badly in Need of Girls
For Clerical Work; Pay
is Good.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense, is sending out a circular letter to the chairmen of the state divisions, requesting them to give widespread publicity to the fact that a vital need of the government at the present time is for stenographers and typewriters. The woman's committee has no placement bureau to supply this need, but is urging women to learn stenography as one way of taking up arms in the war country.

The circular reads: "Owing to the unusual demand for labor of all kinds caused by the war, the United States Civil Service Commission is having great difficulty in supplying the needs of the department and offices at Washington, D. C., for typewriter operators and for stenographers and typewriters, and it has asked the woman's committee to assist it in bringing to the attention of women throughout the country an opportunity for them to help the government in a practical way.

"The commission urges, on the ground of patriotism, that women who are trained in stenography or typewriting, or both, enter open competitive examinations at once, and that those who have not such training immediately undergo instruction in exactly the same spirit that has moved them to attend classes in first-aid nursing—that is, the spirit of helpfulness. Hundreds of business schools throughout the country are prepared to give this training, and proficiency in typewriting may be acquired at home through careful study and close application.

"A working knowledge of typewriting may be gained in from one to two months; stenography, of course, takes longer, but typewriter operators, as well as stenographers and typewriters, are in great demand. All who pass the examinations for the departments and offices at Washington, D. C., are practically assured of a certification for appointment at salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,200 a year. The woman's committee is making an appeal to the chairmen of the State divisions to spread throughout the territory information concerning examination and application blanks. The circular states that the prospect is that the need for stenographers and typewriters will continue for an indefinite period.

BEGIN TO FEEL COAL SHORTAGE

Cities and Towns in Ohio and West Virginia Already Confronted With Alarming Conditions.

Huntingdon, West Virginia, although in the heart of one of the richest coal belts in the world, is confronted with the worst coal famine the city has ever known. So serious has the situation become that Mayor Schon appealed to Governor Corawell for advice in regard to the city's right to commandeer coal being shipped in interstate commerce. Coal dealers say it is the inability to get coal and not the price that is causing the famine. They assert that coal producers will not sell them coal saying all their production is sold and being shipped to lake ports.

Fuel shortage at Youngstown, O., has reached a critical stage. Two blast furnaces of the Carnegie Steel company are idle as a result of the shortage. Pupils in the high school shivered because there was no heat. An alarming condition confronts Cincinnati, where there are less than 50,000 tons of coal in the entire market and the consumption is estimated at over 10,000 tons daily. No coal is being shipped to Cincinnati, due to the priority order which forces all coal from West Virginia and Kentucky to be shipped through Cincinnati to the Northwest.

The DEEP SEA PERIL

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

© BY W. G. CHAFFIN

"Quite right," answered Donald. "You may slug me a hammock in the officers' messroom."

"I've done it, sir," Clouts answered. A moment later Donald found himself a prisoner on board his own ship. For, on making his exit, Clouts had locked the door. The action was done with dispatch, and the key was turned almost noiselessly, but Donald had heard it.

He got into his hammock and tried to compose his mind, but he discovered that the events of the day had shaken him more than he had imagined. Those awful memories recurred to him against his volition. Worst of all was the knowledge that precious time was passing while he was a prisoner. And he recollected that the monstrous horde, surrounding the submarine, no doubt, had already discovered that men were food. If Davies took off the hatches—perhaps he had already done so.

His mind became obsessed by the threatened danger. He sprang from his hammock, trembling. He tried to open the door. He set his shoulder against it. Outside he heard the ready notes of a cough organ, and Sam Clouts suddenly stood before him.

Donald had an impulse to appeal to the man, but at once he saw its futility.

"Tell Mr. Davies that he is on no account to take off the hatches," he said.

Sam Clouts saluted him and calmly looked the danger again. Outside the strains of the mouth organ were heard once more. Evidently Clouts was under instructions to remain at his post.

Donald went back to his hammock. He shrugged his shoulders at the futility of it all, his helplessness. He had done all that he could do. And now a sense of complete fatigue began to overcome him. He could not keep his tired eyelids apart.

Slowly, struggling desperately against the imperative need of sleep, he felt himself drifting away.

He did not know how long he slept, but it seemed a few minutes only when cries pierced through the mists of unconsciousness. In an instant he was upon his feet, groping in intense darkness.

He could not discern from what part of the boat the ominous sounds proceeded. The whole interior of the F-3 was like a sounding board. The cries appeared to proceed from every part of her. Donald had never heard such cries save once, and then they came from actual throats. That was when his revenue cutter had surprised a band of pirates at their bloody work on the sea islands.

He heard Ida cry out in his cabin. He cried to her in answer, and, leaping back, he plucked with all his might against the panel, and again, and yet again, until the woodwork splintered.

The cry burst forth again, drowning the sounds of the outcries and scuffling. It was a cry of a woman in mortal fear. Donald drove the splintered timbers before him through the hole in the wall. He found the girl where she lay beside his berth. He raised her in his arms, and felt one of the blubbery flippers on his hand.

That night in the little room was always a nightmare remembrance. The yielding body offered Donald no purchase. And the monster fought in silence, apparently incapable of articulation, and the struggling flippers sucked the blood from his face and hands; and, as he pressed them away, the flesh rose into welts beneath them.

They swayed and struggled, and through the inky darkness Donald could hear the sound of similar battles, the curses of men, their agonizing cries, the thudding falls of heavy bodies.

But Donald could not lose with Ida's life at stake. The monster's struggles grew feebler. Donald flung it from him, and heard it shuffle out of the room and into the darkness of the passage. Then he knew that four ruled among these sea-beasts as upon land.

Suddenly Davies burst into the cabin.

"Pat! I've come to you!" he cried hysterically. "You spoke the truth, sir, and I thought you were dead! I opened the hatches, and they're all over the ship, sir! I've come to die with you!"

Another man ran pattering up to them. It seemed strange afterward, when Donald recalled it, how the three seemed to be aware of each other's presence in the little cabin.

It was Sam Clouts.

"They've got us, sir!" he cried. "I fought to the end, but the rest are in the sea, and I'm the only one left! I've locked the entrance to the conning tower, but it's only a question of minutes, sir!"

Donald could hear the monsters straining at the door. He felt sure that the steel plating, thin as it was, would yield to the sudden exercise of any muscular force, but to the silent, steady pressure of the heavy bodies. The door creaked and groaned under the impact.

"Into the torpedo-room!" gasped Donald. "Through the escape hatch! We must save Miss Kennedy," he added.

He snatched up Ida and began groping toward the metallic sheathing which admitted air from above into the torpedo room.

"I think I can get the tube apart, sir," Clouts volunteered.

It seemed an eternity before Donald heard a section of the metal plate rattle upon the floor.

"We'll have to jump, sir!" Clouts panted. "I'll go down first and catch you. Pass along the lugs when you hear me call."

Donald heard him leap into the torpedo room below. A moment later his voice came up the funnel. "I'm ready for the lady, sir!" he called.

Donald raised Ida in his arms and lowered her through the tube.

"After you, sir," said Davies.

"I have assumed command, Davies," Donald replied.

"Very well, sir," said the middy quietly, and descended. Donald followed him. As he jumped for the door of the torpedo room, he heard the scraping sound of flippers on the floor above. But the creaking of the conning tower door had ceased.

"We're saved!" cried Donald. "Davies, they can't force the conning tower. Of course not. That sound is one or two of the beasts who have come down the hatches. You closed them?"

"No, sir. There wasn't time."

"Then they tried to get through the conning tower, and hadn't reason enough to know that they could get through the hatches!" cried Donald joyfully.

"Their reason wasn't what they had down the tube, sir, unless they've got bodies as slim as ours," said Clouts. "And they feel like—like barrels, sir," he added.

Overhead, the scraping continued, sometimes approaching the tube and then receding. Presently there came the sound of a commotion. Donald inferred that the sea devils had found the one that he had injured, and that they were satisfying their terrible cannibalistic instincts. He heard a body dropped this way and that, and a dreadful roaring.

After a while the swishing began again, and a faint tapping of flippers against the walls, as if the creatures were endeavoring to explore the interior of the ship. Occasionally a faint, phosphorescent luminosity was visible at the top of the tube. But the monsters made no attempt to descend into the torpedo room. An idea came to Donald.

"Davies! Listen to me!" he said. "They don't know we're here."

"No, sir. I was thinking—"

"That they have no sense of smell."

"Yes, sir."

"And little hearing. At least, that they distinguish sounds only as vibrations."

"Yes, sir. And of course their sense of sight must be extremely limited. And so, roughly, that leaves them only the use of taste and touch, but probably developed far above our own."

"We'll beat them, Davies."

"If that's true as they can't hear me, I think I'll play a bit on my mouth organ," said Clouts.

"Just a low, humming, sir."

"Right, Clouts," answered Donald. But simultaneously with the first notes there came from above a singular sound. It seemed to be very far away; it was a single, mellow note, the G of a violin, and exquisitely true. It might have been a distant warning buoy anchored amid the tides.

"What's that, Davies?" asked Donald.

"I don't know, sir. The light-house stopped operating when the war broke out, and the buoy was taken up."

Once more the sound was heard. And suddenly Donald knew that he had heard it before, the same note, though infinitely less powerful. It was the sound of the finger on the bowl of water within the house in Baltimore.

The scurrying in the passage ended in a scurry and did not recur. All through the night they crouched in the torpedo room, watching and sleeping by turns, and the silence was broken only by a passing word and the occasional tunefulness of Clouts' mouth organ as he played "Sally in Our Alley."

CHAPTER VII.

Ira MacBeard.

Im MacBeard was one of those rare men who are recognized by their contemporaries as master minds. To the public he was unknown, but among the learned he was mentioned in the same breath with Faraday, Sir Isaac Newton and Lawister. Halfhearted of the March Hares' club had once honored him by publicly comparing him with James I.

He had discovered the secret of cold light, and had received a fortune from one of the largest electrical companies for destroying his papers. This enabled him to free himself from the poverty in which he had lived.

He had bisected an ion—upon a blackboard; a thing considered theoretically impossible.

He had solved the problem of un-ing solar energy, although he had not succeeded in making his process valuable commercially.

Unfortunately, like many men of genius, MacBeard had one disastrous failing. He had trained himself intellectually at the expense of his moral faculties. He had never learned to control his primal gutter-urges propensities.

He was a thief.

He did not steal big things, but little ones, and everyone knows that this is more damning socially.

They called it kleptomania, and let him resign. But it was not kleptomania; it was theft. MacBeard's career was finished. The only claim that would admit him to membership was the inventors'—and that only because the furious bickerings of its members had compelled the passage of a rule that there should be no blackmailing. Anyone could join the inventors' club, but only inventors wanted to.

MacBeard, embittered, brooded over his wrongs. They assumed monstrous proportions in his mind. He was already approaching fifty; he believed that at death the soul perishes with the body, and the thought of his gentle brain being obliterated filled him with frenzy. He wanted to make a lasting mark upon the world.

His first idea was to use his solar-energy plan to produce simultaneous eruptions of the volcanoes in Italy and Iceland, Japan and California upon an unprecedented scale. A lava desert should cover all the tilted fields and cities, burying man a thousand feet under its surface and obliterating civilization.

The science and art of nineteenth-twentieths of the world would disappear. MacBeard not only hated the world, which had made him an outcast, but he despised it intellectually as beyond redemption. He wanted to bestir its ruins as a superman, a god.

However, his scheme had several drawbacks. It was utterly beyond his financial means. He could not foresee exactly the results of it. There were disturbing possibilities, and he was not the man to act without mathematical exactitude.

His vengeance must take other forms. He wanted a less and less and less, which reached less of the midnight lamp. He wanted a more concrete personal triumph. He wanted to lead an army to victory, not to sit back and watch the working out of blind forces that he had set in motion.

Besides, destruction must be followed by construction, to satisfy his scientific mind.

His second thought was to produce a race of men, somewhere in the boundless wastes of Greenland, that should grow to maturity in a few years; a race organized for war, a perfect blend of man and tiger. It had been done with the plants.

But he was too old. He would be seventy before this plan could be carried to perfection. And then it was improbable that the details would work out as he anticipated. His final idea came through Masterman.

Masterman was one of the many men whom he had broken in his days of power. But Masterman was of a different caliber from the rest. Masterman had tried to come back, and had almost succeeded.

MacBeard, at first contemptuous of the old dreamer, came at last to watch Masterman uneasily. He knew that the old captain was craved upon the subject of deep-sea life; but he knew, too, the facts that underlay his letters to the newspapers.

pressure, under a normal atmosphere. He made a quick examination of it, saw down in the kitchen, and spent the remainder of the night poring over Masterman's papers. In these he learned much that was essential to his success.

He read that the creature in the tank was a young one, which had not yet acquired the power of resistance to an ordinary atmosphere. Nature was still in process of modifying her creation, and, as is always the case, the young retained the juvenile disabilities, just as the young of fish retain like other fishes and have one eye on either side of the head. The modifications in the physiological structure come with maturity.

The adult monsters, MacBeard learned, had already acquired the ability to exist for an indefinite period upon the surface of the sea. While the young had gills, these became modified into a species of lung, capable of breathing both above and under water. This was a new adaptation of nature. MacBeard hurried back to the dead monster, and found the lung already partly formed. That satisfied him that Masterman was an accurate observer.

The captain had spent weeks on the island. He had put all the results of his investigations into his letter to Donald. He described elaborately the structure of the monsters, tracing the modifications of the gills, air bladders, fins and flippers.

Lastly, he told Donald the secret of controlling them. And this was so amazing that MacBeard almost doubted it.

Unfortunately, two pages were missing, and these contained part of the instructions for keeping the monsters in subjection. And, what alarmed MacBeard, the manuscript ended with the statement that the intrusion was not likely to prove of permanent injury to humanity, because—

However, MacBeard cared little for this in his supreme joy. His dreams took definite shape at last, rushing into the concrete with a violence that sent him into an ecstasy. He saw the man of the future, the superman, who was already at hand. Irresistible by reason of his numbers, strength and cunning. And he saw himself, the ruler of a new world which had never heard of the eighth commandment.

Next morning he left Baltimore in his motorboat. It was constructed so as to be practically unsinkable, and he had stored it with provisions, gasoline and instruments. He had several weeks' supplies on board. He was dependent on no one.

He started northward at once, passed within a few miles of the F-3 upon his course, and reached Fair Island. When he set foot upon its rocky, lonely shores, he knew that at last his time had come. His revenge upon the race was ripening, and he meant to exercise it to the full.

His first act was to explore the island. His discovery with his plummet that Masterman had been correct in tracing the prolongation of the south spur of the continental shelf. He discovered that Fair Island was the peak of a subterranean range ascending sharply from a great depth.

At a distance of about three hundred feet beneath the surface there was a sort of cup or crater in the mountain, teeming with unknown forms of submarine life.

He found the stores which had been left by the oil-ship, but there was no sign of any airplane. However, since MacBeard did not know that one was to have been sent, he did not expect to find one.

Stocking a cave with provisions, he made himself at home there, and at once set out to investigate the presence of Masterman's monsters.

CHAPTER VIII.

Donald's Dining Party.

Donald took a match from his silver box and struck it. The water had not penetrated—his burst into flame. He looked at his watch and saw that it was half past eight.

"It must be growing daylight above," he said to Davies. "I am sure that the beasts are gone. I think I'll go up and see whether I can start the engines."

"Let me go, sir," said the middy. "You will remain here in charge," said Donald. "Give me your back, Clouts!"

Hoisting himself upon the shoulders of the sailor, Donald clambered up the pipe and reached the passage above. There was a stench of fishy bodies, but he was certain that the monsters were gone.

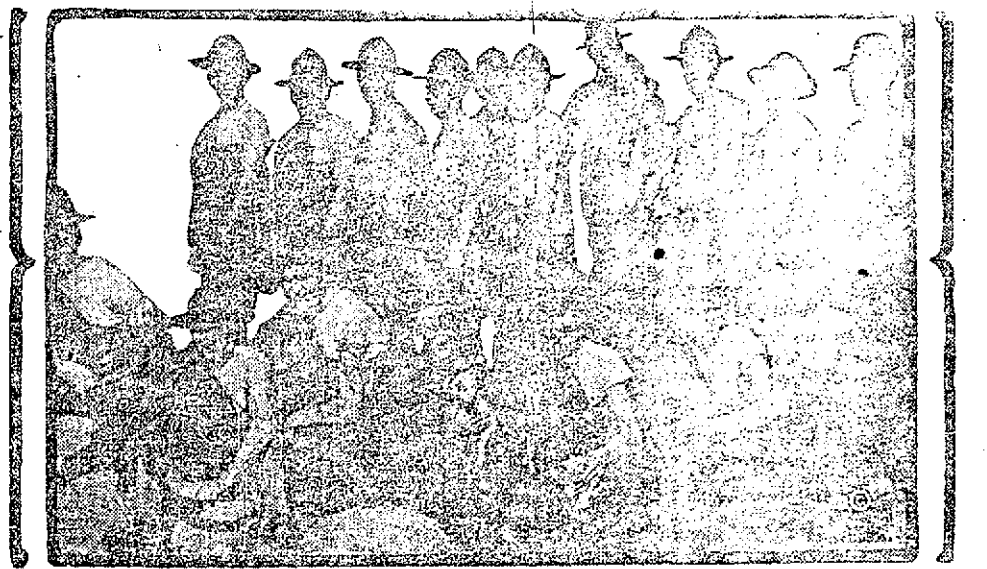

He ascended the ladder into the conning tower and threw off the hatch. Instantly a gust of fresh air, driving in, made him reel dizzily. He realized that he had been breathing the depleted, vitiated atmosphere of the torpedo room all night.

He waited till he had recovered; then he unfastened the door and clambered out upon the deck, which lay almost level with the surface of the ocean.

The Pullman Quartette at the Arcade Theatre Next Week.

THE PARAMOUNT. POLLY ANN—A five part Triangle feature, in which Bessie Love is seen in the leading role, is being shown today. The charming little screen star appears as an orphan, compelled to earn her own living as a slave in a small town hotel. Later she is adopted by a wealthy man who takes her into his home to replace a discolored son. Polly was called "Pollyanna" because she did rather up-lish things, such as slapping the tavern keepers with a mop when they refused to move away from the stove, the village loafing place. The play is said to be a hamper of humor that will stimulate happiness for old and young, fat and thin, male and female. Not since "The Sawdust Ring," has Bessie Love played such a whimsical role. A selected company is included. Monday Harold Lockwood and Mae Allisen will appear in "The Promise."

ORPHEUM THEATRE. "DOWN TO EARTH"—A special Arcadia production featuring Douglas Fairbanks, will be shown again today. Also Billy West in the "Chief Cook," Monday, Kathryn Williams and Wallace Reid in "Big Timber." The story deals with adventures in the lumber camps high up on the Sierras. It is an adaptation of the famous story by Bertrand Sinclair. This story has just ended in this paper. Friday and Saturday Annette Kellerman in "The Daughter of the Gods," the famous William Fox production.

Pechin.

PECHIN, Oct. 5.—Road Supervisor Charles V. Hardy of Irishtown, has repaired the bridge over Gist run at Pechin, putting on an entirely new floor of two-inch oak plank.

Trenches for the foundation of a substantial wall under the stable of the United Firebrick company, Pechin are being excavated. Formerly a wall of concrete and bricks supported the stable, but the floor of three years ago washed the side of the foundation next to the creek away, and posts were used to support that side of the big stable. The posts are now inclined to give way with the increased hay and corn crops stored in the granaries and mows and the foundation will be made strong enough to support it. E. G. Lehman will build the wall which will be of concrete and bricks.

Sale of Union Huck Towels!

Representing a Lucky $1,000 Purchase of Manufacturers' Irregulars

Save 25% to 33 1/3%

You will be quick to see the opportunity this sale offers. You will be quick to grasp it. For the towel problem, while perhaps not quite so important as others that come up daily, is yet very real. Solve it to your own satisfaction and profit. Solve it the economical, money-saving way. Buy a year's supply in this sale.

The Towels themselves are full size and hemmed—of good heavy weight that promises lasting service. Plain white or white with red borders. Three lots—one at 29c each; another at 39c each; a third at 49c each. Those at 39c have a neat satin border. Those at 49c have a satin border in the conventional Greek-key design. Prices and values far out of the ordinary.

29c

29c each for Towels that actually cost $3.25 to $3.65 the dozen to manufacture.

39c

39c each for Towels that actually cost $4.35 to $5.00 the dozen to manufacture.

49c

49c each for Towels that actually cost $4.50 to $5.50 the dozen to manufacture.

Free Lessons in Knitting Begin About October 15

We name only one condition—that the materials you use be purchased from our immense stocks of yarns—all colors; needles—various kinds and sizes; and beautiful materials for your knitting bags.

High School Girls Are Especially Invited to Attend

If a sufficient number of High School and Grammar School girls enroll, special classes will be arranged for them. A few lessons under Miss Neil—our experienced instructor—will quickly qualify them to render efficient service in their duties as auxiliaries to the Red Cross.
